BRITISH BACK U. S. TO HILT ON ASSEMBLY PLAN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 17.—Britain is staging a surprise move in the United Nations today by backing to the hilt U. S. Secretary of State Marshall's plan for a year-round "little assembly."

The Soviet bloc, led by Andrei Gromyko, is certain to redouble its bitter opposition in the face of this sudden British boost, which may turn the scales heavily in its favor.

Initially, the British eyed the Marshall scheme for a 57-nation standing committee with a cold reserve.

The 57-nation political and security committee, striving with might and main to win a race against time, is hoping to reach a vote on the U. S. plan despite the nine speakers awaiting a hearing.

John Lewis made out worse than the vice president who tangled with Fred Allen—and Allen had better material.

Hoover once set public example for conserving grain by ordering White House horses transferred to Ft. Myer.

The two men were arrested Wednesday by Harlan city police officer Felix Belcher for handling a two-foot copperhead, in a religious service in front of the Harlan courthouse only a few minutes after Circuit Judge James S. Forester had dismissed a similar charge against Shoupe in his court.

The law which Shoupe and his followers are protesting was passed by the legislature in 1941. It was introduced by Sen. D. C. Jones of Harlan county.

Big Plant Considers City

LABOR SURVEY IS TO DECIDE PROJECT FATE

OSES To Start Campaign To Line Up 500 Women For Plant Jobs

A manufacturing plant providing employment for 500 women will locate in Circleville if the necessary employees are available. The Ohio State Employment Service next week will start a campaign to determine employment possibilities, and it is announced that the location decision will rest entirely on response by women.

The OSES says that the preliminary survey conducted by the manufacturer proved local conditions entirely satisfactory and resulted in the "go" signal on the employment situation canvass.

The proposed factory would work two regulation 8-hour shifts and would provide excellent working conditions in a new building of probably 200,000 square feet of floor space.

THE OSES said that it is temporarily obligated to withhold the name of the concern, but that if response to the survey next week is favorable that the company soon will make its intentions public.

Promise of prevailing wages will be made to all women who make job applications during the survey.

BRITAIN, BURMA SIGN PACT OF INDEPENDENCE

LONDON, Oct. 17—Britain and Burma signed an agreement today giving Burma independence, outside the British Commonwealth if it chooses.

Burmese officials have indicated they will stay out of the Commonwealth.

Burma, with a present population of more than 15,000,000 and an area of 261,000 square miles, has been under British influence for more than 300 years.

The historic document, lopping off another part of the British empire, was signed by Prime Minister Attlee and Burmese Premier Thakin Nu in a ceremony at Ten Downing street.

An Anglo-Burmese arrangement has been reached under which a British military mission will be sent to Rangoon.

It was understood the mission may be called on to aid in the defense of Burma.

HOSPITAL BILL FOR $1,273,000 PROVES SHOCK

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 17—R. M. Hickey, vice president of a Louisville Hospital Service Group, was regaining his composure today after being handed a hospital bill for $1,273,000.

Hickey has been receiving hospital bills for years, but the amount of this one staggered him until he found that it had been sent by A. C. Goetz, of Louisville, who was hospitalized in Shanghai, China.

The bill was in terms of Chinese dollars, which are rated at 12,000 for one American dollar. In American money, the bill was a mere $106.

WORKERS CALLED BACK

DETROIT, Oct. 17—The Briggs Manufacturing Company announced today that full operations will be resumed Monday at its Mack and Eight Mile plants in Detroit. The company said 8,000 employees idled by steel shortages will be called back.

Arab Troops Start Move To Frontier

Egyptian Brigade Of 7,000 Ordered To Deploy In El Arish Zone

CAIRO, Oct. 17—Arab troops from several middle eastern states, bearing full battle equipment, were reported on the move today toward the Palestine frontier.

Egyptian forces were reported participating for the first time in accordance with an agreement reached by the Arab League to protect Arab interests in the Holy Land when the British withdraw.

(In London Sheikh Mustafa Mumtaz declared that 10,000 volunteers of the Moslem brotherhood organization already have reached the Palestine border of Egypt.)

In Cairo it was learned that an Egyptian army brigade comprising 11 infantry companies totaling 7,000 men received marching orders to deploy in the El Arish zone, about 70 miles from the Palestine border. They will join another infantry company already stationed in the area.

A SIGNIFICANT development was seen in the simultaneous appeal by Gen. Azziz El Masri Pasha, former chief of staff of the Egyptian army, to Egyptian youth to aid in building an army of liberation.

Reports from Damascus said meanwhile that Syrian troops which had been guarding the frontiers between Syria and Turkey and Syria and Iraq left their border garrisons to participate in a southward move.

ARMY SEEKING TEACHERS FOR FAR EAST JOBS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17—Lieut. Col. Homer F. Kellums of the instructor selection office in New York will conduct interviews with prospective teachers next Monday in Cleveland, in an effort to recruit instructors for the Army's education program in the Far East.

Major Fred G. D. Mauck, in charge of the Army and Air Force recruiting service in Cleveland, announced openings for 131 civilian instructors from this area.

Applicants must be qualified as high school or college instructors and are required to serve a minimum of 12 months and a maximum of 18. The age limit is 50 for men and 40 for women.

Travel will be supplied by the government and living quarters will be provided at a cost not to exceed $45 a month. Medical and dental care as well as laundry service will be provided free.

Salaries were designated between $4,000 and $5,000 a year.

CIO CONVENTION ENDS WITHOUT MAJOR SPLIT

BOSTON, Oct. 17—The National CIO convention ends today without a major division on any important resolution.

Despite the sub-surface criticism of a left-wing minority which opposes the Marshall plan and favors Henry A. Wallace for president, the majority, under President Philip Murray, obtained unanimous votes on many issues, and kept hot floor fights from developing.

The convention, following election of officers today, ends with all talk of a third party definitely squelched.

CREAM PRICE DROPS

Wholesale cream prices declined three cents Friday on the Circleville market. The new quotations are 65 cents for premium grade and 62 cents for regular grade. Price of eggs remained at 55 cents a dozen wholesale.

BRITISH REDS SAY HURRY OUT OF HOLY LAND

Nation-Wide Drive Starts For Quick Action On London Decision

LONDON, Oct. 17—The Communist party is launching a nation-wide campaign to obtain immediate fulfillment of the British decision to evacuate Palestine "regardless of the consequences."

This was revealed today by Harry Pollitt, secretary of the party, who said he recognized the possibility of a "terrible bloodbath" engulfing the Holy Land once the British withdraw.

Pollitt produced notes for several speeches he will make at Communist mass meetings Saturday, indicating the Communist line on the Palestine question.

He said:

"If America takes such a burning interest in this question, let them send their troops to do or die, and not think their dollars will buy British troops to do the dirty work."

Asked whether he thought Soviet troops should be sent to Palestine, Pollitt replied:

"That's up to the British Nations to decide, but British soldiers must leave."

Referring to the reported Anglo-American unwillingness for Russian troops to enter Palestine, Pollitt drew a parallel with Anglo-French opposition to the Soviet entry of Poland in 1939.

He added pointedly: "look what happened."

MAKING A gesture toward the Arabs, the Communist spokesman declared:

"We understand the deep concern widely felt in Arab national circles."

"Rejection of their demands for the dominant position which the Arab majority holds in Palestine might be regarded as rejection of just national claims of the Arabs in the Middle East, but it must be recognized that there now exists a community of 600-thousand Jews in Palestine whose rights and claims must also be taken into consideration."

The problem of Palestine is bound up with the whole present situation in the Middle East."

In answer to numerous questions, Pollitt indicated that any United Nations refusal to allow Russia to participate in an international police force will be blamed on "American imperialism."

Dr. Tressler reported that liquid or nearly liquid foods, such as cream style corn, are pumped through pipes surrounded by superheated steam and quickly heated to 290 degrees Fahrenheit. The product is then rapidly cooled to about 150 degrees and sealed in sterile cans under aseptic conditions.

Because of the unusually short period of heating to which the products are subjected, Dr. Tressler continued, a great improvement in quality results.

IRANIAN TROOPS TAKE POSTS ON RUSS FRONTIER

TEHRAN, Oct. 17—The Iranian newspaper Eghdam reported today that Iranian troops have taken up "defensive" positions along the frontiers with Russia because of renewed Soviet pressure on the Iranian government to complete oil concessions to Russia.

IKE SAYS HE DESIRES NO PART OF POLITICS

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to Washington today after telling New Hampshire political leaders that he does not want anything to do with politics.

He said he has no personal acquaintance with anyone sponsoring the "Draft Eisenhower for President" movement.

Gen. Eisenhower announced he had set April 1 as the date when he will retire from his military command.

PENALTY PAID FOR PLOT TO SEIZE POWER

New And Violent Roundup Of Communists May Be In Making

ATHENS, Oct. 17—Fifty-two Greek Communists were put to death today for participating in the slaying last May of a high police official and five Greek airforce officers.

Court-martialed and convicted last month, the executed men were alleged to have worked with Greek rebels in a plot to seize power in Salonic. They also were accused of "terrorist" activities.

Meanwhile, increased guerrilla activity throughout Greece, together with extensive sabotage of communications and increasingly-violent attacks on the Sophoulis government by the underground radio, was viewed with interest.

Some observers took this intensive anti-government campaign as indicative that a new and violent roundup of Communists may be imminent.

The central committee of the leftist E. A. M. met in Athens, meantime, for the avowed purpose of examining the "situation as it developed since the Sophoulis government came into power."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—United States officials plan to abandon any special concern over Greece at the end of next June unless political developments in the area force a new appeal for congressional assistance.

While officials in charge of the Greek aid program, adopted as a first step in Secretary of State Marshall's "stop-Communism" program, are not entirely optimistic about success of the campaign, they plan to abandon it when the present $300 million dollar authorization runs out.

The one uncertain factor in the situation is the ability of the (Continued on Page Two)

Taft Again Strikes At C. I. O. Domination Of Democratic Policies

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—Sen. Robert A. Taft charged today that the Truman administration submits its policies for the approval of the CIO and its foreign policy is so inconsistent that "we do not know whether the administration is leading us to peace or war."

Taft appeared with former Minnesota Gov. Harold E. Stassen, an avowed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year, before the Fall meeting of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's organizations.

"Rejection of their demands for the dominant position which the Arab majority holds in Palestine might be regarded as rejection of just national claims of the Arabs in the Middle East."

In order to prevent any threat to such freedom, the Republicans have given wholehearted support to the United Nations."

Taft, declared that he did not believe that Russia wanted war, "but there can be no doubt to its determination to spread the religion of Communism throughout the world."

He charged that the national administration "was extremely soft toward Communism for many years" and that "the government itself was obviously rid of Communists employees, or President Truman would not (Continued on Page Two)

PARIS, Oct. 17—The French capital went without subway service again today despite the return to work of independent conductors.

The government is considering drafting the 25,000 Communist bus and subway strikers still out.

Sabotage was attributed to some of the 25,000 workers still on strike.

The government is due to reply to strikers' demands today. Police guards were assigned to protect drivers of buses put into operation as a result of the return-to-work movement which developed during the night.

In all, 5,000 workers decided to call off the strike, including the conductors and members of another independent, non-communist union.

The government is considering drafting the 25,000 Communist bus and subway strikers still on strike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—The U. S. coast guard cutter Bibb is rushing at top speed today to reach Boston Sunday with 69 exhausted, nervous survivors of the ill-fated flying boat Bermuda Sky Queen forced down in Mid-Atlantic.

Meanwhile, an investigation was launched into the first mid-Atlantic ditching of a commercial passenger flight—one that carried a record-breaking number of passengers.

George C. McGhee, coordinator of the Greek-Turkish aid program, on his return from a Greek inspection trip, said this warfare has been stepped up rather than abated since the program was enacted.

McGhee noted, however, that the proposed United Nations border commission might help reduce the flow of outside aid to the Greek insurgents. Moreover, McGhee said, the flow of U. S. military supplies to Greece's 200,000 regular troops is just beginning to arrive.

STATE CAUGHT IN TWO-WAY WEATHER DRIVE

A shallow depression from the spent southern hurricane squeezed into Ohio today, clouding the sky and dropping a few showers in Cincinnati and other places.

The state was caught in a two-way offensive, from the South and also the West, with the latter attack expected to bring rain to northern Ohio by late Friday night or Saturday.

In both instances, the depressions are fairly weak and their worst effects probably will be to cover the sun and keep the mercury from hitting new high records again. He said that no chilling weather was in sight.

Yesterday afternoon temperatures zoomed into the 80's over the entire state, with Circleville and Chesapeake reporting a high of 87 degrees. It was 85 at Cincinnati, Columbus, Wilmington and Parkersburg, W. Va.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook for Ohio follows:

Temperatures will average about 10 degrees above normal for the period. Normal maximum 60; normal minimum 41; minor cooling Sunday, no change Monday, warmer Tuesday. Precipitation will average about one-quarter inch, appearing as scattered light showers Saturday and Sunday and again about Wednesday.

ROBBERY MOTIVE SEEN IN DOUBLE MURDER

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Oct. 17—Police were working today on a robbery motive in connection with the double murder of a man 65, and his 85-year-old mother in a secluded mountain cabin near Huntsville.

Jesse Norman and his mother, Mrs. Laura Norman, were found dead in their log cabin near Moore's mill. Norman was shot through the heart and the woman beaten to death.

The slayer or slayers may have stolen $5,000. Norman was known to keep large sums of money on his person. A thorough search of the cabin netted only one dollar bill.

PENALTY PAID FOR PLOT TO SEIZE POWER

(Continued from Page One) Greek national government to end the guerrilla warfare raging along Greece's borders. Thus far this situation has not improved.

George C. McGhee, coordinator of the Greek-Turkish aid program, on his return from a Greek inspection trip, said this warfare has been stepped up rather than abated since the program was enacted.

McGhee noted, however, that the proposed United Nations border commission might help reduce the flow of outside aid to the Greek insurgents. Moreover, McGhee said, the flow of U. S. military supplies to Greece's 200,000 regular troops is just beginning to arrive.

STATE CAUGHT IN TWO-WAY WEATHER DRIVE

A shallow depression from the spent southern hurricane squeezed into Ohio today, clouding the sky and dropping a few showers in Cincinnati and other places.

The state was caught in a two-way offensive, from the South and also the West, with the latter attack expected to bring rain to northern Ohio by late Friday night or Saturday.

In both instances, the depressions are fairly weak and their worst effects probably will be to cover the sun and keep the mercury from hitting new high records again. He said that no chilling weather was in sight.

Yesterday afternoon temperatures zoomed into the 80's over the entire state, with Circleville and Chesapeake reporting a high of 87 degrees. It was 85 at Cincinnati, Columbus, Wilmington and Parkersburg, W. Va.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook for Ohio follows:

Temperatures will average about 10 degrees above normal for the period. Normal maximum 60; normal minimum 41; minor cooling Sunday, no change Monday, warmer Tuesday. Precipitation will average about one-quarter inch, appearing as scattered light showers Saturday and Sunday and again about Wednesday."

The Rev. Mr. Vaughn was awarded the divorce and also custody of the daughter on Oct. 1, 1924. At that time he was pastor of the Christian church at Williamsport. Several months ago the Rev. Mr. Vaughn, also known as "Pat Maguire", spoke before the Rotary club in Circleville.

PLEA FOR LIFE SOUNDED BY U. S. REALTORS

One Of Most Powerful Of Lobbying Organization
Finds Itself In Crack

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—When one of the nation's most powerful lobbying organizations starts pleading for its life, it is a spectacle worth reporting.

Hence, this report—

Today in Oklahoma City, President Morgan L. Fitch of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (better known by its initials, NAREB) is slated to make a speech before the annual convention of the Oklahoma Real Estate association.

ACCORDING to his prepared text, Fitch is supposed to warn that a "formidable array of threats" confronts the nation's realtors when the second session of the eightieth congress convenes.

(Note: "realtors" is NAREB's term for real estate men.)

Now, being a Chicago realtor and a busy man, Fitch naturally had to have the research for his speech done by someone else. Quite happy to handle the job was NAREB's now-somewhat-jittery Washington lobbying staff. Thus, if their current unemployment fears somehow got transmitted into the text of the Fitch address, who can be amazed?

In any case, Oklahoma realtors were slated to be told today that 18 bills relating to housing, which were introduced during the first session, will remain as live legislative proposals for action. These, to quote the NAREB news release, include "such proposals as the Douglass bill with its plea for one billion dollars for public housing, the Donohue bill which invents 'subsidy loans' for housing, and the Baldwin bill which seeks federal subsidies to states for housing."

(At this point, your correspondent would like to mention that Man-O'-War also is still alive—but the chance of his winning next year's Kentucky Derby is approximately the same as the chance of any of those 18 bills becoming law next session.)

Then, the Fitch address—"researched" in Washington, so to speak—continues as follows:

"THE GIANT among them (the housing bills), of course, is the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill. It already has approval by the senate banking and currency subcommittee, and its left-wing supporters are busily marshalling their forces for the maximum pressure they can exert on congress when this precedent-shattering scheme for socialized housing is again considered."

Well, it's intriguing to hear a bill co-sponsored by Senator Robert A. Taft called "left-wing," but we'll pass over that for the moment. The only pertinent point is that the aforementioned bill has about as much chance of passing, as is, through the next session as the proverbial snowball through hades!

And the lobbyists who "researched" Mr. Fitch's speech know that well.

What then lies behind all this? It might be, if he stops to think it over, even Fitch would like to know.

Coincidentally, this week the NAREB Washington staff published an expensive, eight-page, two-color pamphlet filled with charts, diagrams and statements about "How Your Association Functions" and "What You Get For Your Dues." It was sent to all members.

Dues? Oh, yes. It seems that there are some 39,000 active realtors now paying a minimum of $10 each, which is quite a chunk of dough. Then there are "other receipts from sales of books and publications, and the services rendered to the institutes, for which they pay us."

There also are at least a dozen in "cooperating" big money outfits which contribute heavily—although the pamphlet this week pointed out that the NAREB "is not organized for profit."

"Realtors," shouted the pamphlets front page headline in a fine example of self back-slapping. "You've got a great association! Let's go!"

The brochure also gave the local NAREB lobbyists credit for killing almost every legislative measure which has been defeated since the court-packing case.

SIMULTANEOUSLY, the boys unleashed a barrage of press releases stressing the danger of anti-real estate legislation next session.

Now, as previously mentioned all this is quite a spectacle. And, except for reporting it, about all I have to add is this:

You real estate boys don't have any reason to worry next session. With the presidential (and congressional) election coming up, neither party has the guts to do anything drastic about housing or real estate. After all, they didn't even dare do anything during the off year last session. So all this talk about threats and dangers is so much nonsense.

However, I suppose even lobbyists need to make a living. So if you want to keep on paying them to hang around, that's your business.

PLEA FOR SINECURES

THE RECENT shake-up of the British Labor ministry made the 78-year-old Viscount Addison Lord Privy Seal. This is an office with no particular duties, generally conferred on some useful party hack or on some campaign contributor who would bring no talents to any other post, or, more often, to an elder statesman whose advice is valued, but who does not wish to be tied to the routine of an active department. In cabinet meetings the Lord Privy Seal is often heard with more respect than the holders of more glamorous offices.

Our Presidents are, of course, free to consult whom they wish, without giving them even a nominal office. Bernard Baruch has thus advised several Presidents. Yet the possession of a regular office with some duties of attendance and a good salary attached might bring into national service some valuable citizen who otherwise could not afford to serve. It might also keep some good men who otherwise would feel compelled to get out.

To say so may be heresy, but a well-paid sinecure may sometimes be a public benefit.

KICKERS WANTED

A PORTLAND, Ore., motorist got a paint job on his car that he thought was rotten. Getting a placard that said so, he parked across the street from the shop. The painter threatened violence, the motorist called police, and the city attorney ruled that the aggrieved customer was within his rights. If he did not like the job, he had a perfect right to say so.

The motorist should be applauded. Too many of us have inferior work done, and grumble to our friends, but carry it no further. The contractor of workman will probably go serenely on, doing bad work or otherwise gyping his customers. It is not necessary to sue him to get back at him effectively.

The world needs more kickers, not at things in general, but at specific things that go wrong. Sometimes, also calling attention to a wrong goes a long way towards righting it.

ONLY A TRUCE

CONSIDERING the promptness with which Armistice Day was made a holiday after World War I, it is interesting that few states if any have paid the same tribute to V-E and V-J Days. Is this because the last war had two wind-ups to celebrate, and the former only one? Or because the war is not over and this time we realize an armistice is only a stay of arms and may be far from permanent peace?

Wonder if the Russian diplomats are ever frivilous enough to do crossword puzzles?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

President Truman's foreign policy has become fixed in opposition to Soviet Russia's imperialistic expansion and to the spread of Communism in Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. The Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan and our general position in the United Nations are in conformity to this plan.

The Russians have fully recognized the nature of the American policy and have responded by a world-wide propaganda against this country, by the public revival of the Comintern which never went out of existence, and by the unspeakable boorishness of Vishinsky in the United Nations.

In spite of the recent converts to anti-Communism, whose outcries are loudest in exact ratio to their erstwhile appeasement of Russia and their subservience to Left-Wing propaganda within the United States during the war, this apparent impasse need not lead to a fighting war. For where as both countries are very angry, neither wants further destruction of Europe, which could only be turned into a desert as the wars of Genghis Khan turned the once lively cities of Central Asia into wilderness. Those who shriek most for war with Stalin now were most vehement in their demands for war with Germany and Japan not so long ago.

The President is pursuing a correct and in most respects a careful course in the face of great difficulties at home as well as in Europe. The socialism of Great Britain, which has upset the balance in Europe and produced havoc in Asia, has complicated America's policy, which has a habit of partnership with Great Britain. The unwillingness of European labor to work and the natural hoarding of foodstuffs by European farmers have confused the economics of the peace. The partition of India, the rise of the Arab states, the Palestinian partition, the Indonesian revolt, the Viet-Nam revolt, the intensification of civil war in China have added to our burdens. No man can be too wise in piloting his country through all these shoals to peace and Mr. Truman has done as well as might have been expected.

At home, however, he faces a dilemma that is inevitable in our system of government and in the current lack of public morality. Here Soviet Russia maintains an indigenous Fifth Column which consists not only of the Communist Party, the various Soviet police agents, spies, commercial and engineering representatives, but also a huge body of men and women who during the past decade and a half have, for one reason or another, become extremely pro-Russian. It must be remembered that during the whole of the Roosevelt regime, it was both popular and profitable to be pro-Russian and pro-Communist. And whereas some can twist from one position to another in a flash, those who rationalize their positions into philosophic systems find it difficult to undo what they have said and written. It is difficult for most men to confess error.

Mr. Truman, in a moment of enthusiasm, demanded a loyalty test for government officials and Congress gave him the money and instructed the Civil Service Commission to do the cleaning up. Nothing has been done. The questionnaire issued by the Commission is a joke. It can prove nothing. In fact, Congress is now investigating.

NEW YORK—There is nothing childish about an actress when she is unsheathing her claws and hissing furiously at a colleague trying to steal a scene. Nor is there anything juvenile about an actor attempting to make time with his best friend's wife, as so often happens.

These roles are played expertly and frighteningly. Yet, for all this rather decadent maturity, there are many instances when actors and actresses are completely little-boy-and-girlish—in the way, for example, that they are superstitious.

We all of us, I suppose, have a couple of pet theories (my own is to deliberately walk under ladders, which is a kind of superstition in reverse, and looks sillier than anything you've seen) but actors . . . wahoo.

Did you know, for example, that Rise Stevens of the Metropolitan Opera has someone spit on her before she sings? The expectation must be done just so, too—three times, daintily (how do you spit daintily?) on the left shoulder, with the spitter intoning "toi, toi, toi."

I can think of half a dozen citizens on whom I would love to spit, but not the razzly Rise.

Singers, I suppose, are the best of all, as we can see from Miss Stevens. There's Dorothy Kirsten, the blond lyric soprano, who not only has a rabbit's foot—a gift from the late Grace Moore—but owns a little toy black cat on wheels, which she has someone pull before her.

Evelyn Keller, who sings the ingenue lead in the Carlo Menotti success, "The Medium," has a little rubber frog that she kicks just before going on stage. Baritone Lorenzo Alvary always shakes hands with the assistant musical director. Tenor Donald Dame carries a toy pig with him, patting it just before stepping on stage. Bass-baritone Ezio Pinza always crosses himself before going on stage at the Met. Now, there is nothing unusual about a performer crossing himself—many boxers, ballplayers and dancers do it—but Pinza does it in the costume of Mephistopheles, the devil, in the opera "Faust."

When you see the devil standing in the wings, muttering a silent prayer and crossing himself devoutly, you are inclined to agree with Irving Berlin's cliche—that there's no business like show business.

"YOU KNOW," somebody always is saying, in New York, "I know Joe can be reached by phone, but I can't remember the name of the guy to call." Well—due to the ingenuity of three former servicemen from this town, this kind of talk may soon cease.

The three are Bill Dunn, Morton Shulman and Buddy Marx, and they have developed something called the Metro-Fone Locator Directory, which, I am told, soon will be on the stands of hotel lobbies, drugstores, etc., along with the regular and classified phone books.

The deal is, that for one dollar, you can have your name, address and a phone number listed in the Metro-Fone directory—the phone being, perhaps, a public phone in your apartment house, a rooming-house phone down the hallway, a hotel number, a neighborhood store or the like.

Morton, Bill and Buddy have the cooperation of the phone company, and they went ahead with the idea after canvassing 5,000 New Yorkers first, the canvassed ones welcoming the plan with open arms.

TELLING YOU OF THIS is just an excuse, of course, for repeating an old joke with which I have been in love for years. It's the one about the smooth, suave guy who picks up a good-looking but cheaply-dressed girl in a bar.

"I'd like to take you places," he says loftily and critically, "but you need refurbishing. Why don't you go to Saks and buy a few dresses and charge them to me?"

"Then go to Antoine to have your hair done, charging it to me, of course. Get a winter coat at Bergdorf's and some new shoes at Bonwit's. Nothing too expensive, of course, but good, y'know? And then—here he takes out a card with a number on it, and hands it to her—"call me here."

"Is that your office, or your home?" the dumb dame asks. "Oh, no," he says. "That's the candy store downstairs where I live. They'll call me to the phone."

DIET AND HEALTH

Patient's Attitude Important In High Blood Pressure Case

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A part of a day. Vacations should be as long and restful as possible.

Moderation Important

Insofar as diet is concerned, the most important thing is moderation. There is no value in eliminating except in cases in which the high blood pressure is accompanied by a kidney infection, in which instance restriction of salt may be advantageous.

If the patient is overweight, a reduction in weight may be beneficial, although this, in itself, may not cause a drop in the blood pressure. However, the loss of weight reduces the work of the heart to some extent.

Coffee and Alcohol

Many doctors do not think that coffee, tea, and the use of alcoholic beverages are of any particular harm. Since alcohol has the tendency to dilate or relax the blood vessels, it may be of some mild benefit.

Moderate exercise is helpful, but exercise should not be taken to the point of fatigue. Walking would seem to be the best form of exercise.

Warm baths are also helpful, but swimming and too much cold water should be avoided.

A Helpful Diet

I have outlined a diet for use in high blood pressure, which may be of some help in following the physician's advice. I shall be glad to send a copy of this information to all those who write enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Names will not be used.

While we have no means of curing high blood pressure of the kind which accounts for nine out of ten cases, the faithful following, under a doctor's supervision, of such a regime as that outlined above, will usually prevent the condition from growing worse, and thus often prolong life for a long time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. B.: I have a brother in the hospital for tuberculosis. He sent me three of his sweaters for my boy, whom he wore. Would it be safe to use them?

Answer: The sweaters should be disinfected by thorough dry cleaning, or by washing with soap and water, and aired in the sunshine before they are used.

Early Retirement

The patient with high blood pressure should get into the habit of going to bed early. Reading in bed may promote this habit of early retirement.

Week ends should be restful.

Tiring trips by automobile will do more harm than good. Some patients may be helped by spending one day a week in bed, or at least one hour in the sun.

Mr. Truman, in a moment of enthusiasm, demanded a loyalty test for government officials and Congress gave him the money and instructed the Civil Service Commission to do the cleaning up. Nothing has been done. The questionnaire issued by the Commission is a joke. It can prove nothing. In fact, Congress is now investigating.

SYNOPSIS

Alison Van Dyke comes to Washington to live with Teresa, her amiable, domineering half-sister, following the death of their mother, Kitty, in Vermont. Four years before Teresa, a highly successful interior decorator, had married Sam Tarrant, quiet, idealistic newspaperman, but the marriage had ended in divorce the following year shortly after the birth of their daughter Suzy. Alison, who was 16 at the time of the wedding, knew the instant she met Sam that he was the only man she would ever love. Teresa was not at home when Alison arrived, but to her great joy, Sam was there enjoying his weekly visit with his small daughter. He explained that since his discharge from the army he has been operating the newspaper and farm in nearby Virginia which his late father left him. He confided his worry over Suzy, a shy, nervous child who became so upset when introduced to Alison, her nurse, Miss Winstead, was neighbors coming and going with vegetables and books and flowers.

Though she liked quietness she knew she was going to miss dreadfully all those friendly noises of her mother's home.

In the living room she picked up the ash tray she had shared with Sam. Two cigarettes . . . Two cigarettes together . . . Wondering if her cigarette and his would ever share such proximity again, she carefully and rather reluctantly deposited them in the low-burning fire and watched their disintegration.

She had been sitting a little while when she heard Miss Winstead and Suzy come in and Miss Winstead's saying, "Careful of the step, dear," as they went upstairs again. And then because it seemed appropriate she gave herself up to thinking of Teresa.

You can believe you know a person quite well because she is a relative or an old friend, but when you begin to think about her it may surprise you to realize that you know her very moderately.

Thus, though there had never been a time when she had not been conscious of her older half-sister and had always been inexplicably proud of her, she had been to Alison that Teresa had always been able to see things before anyone else so that she always had a decision before the other person had begun to make one. Her red mouth was full, but the sharpness of her chin seemed to be increasing.

As a little girl in New England with her odd foreign clothes, her difficulty with the language, her lack of a father and her poor, shabby house, Alison had had nothing to boast of at an age when little girls try to find at least one thing that is better than anyone else's. She had only Teresa. She could always say, "My sister is an artist in Boston." Alison had often wondered if she ever relaxed. Her mother, who had spent most of her life cultivating leisure, had been moved to say more than once, "Relax, Teresa, relax." But Teresa's eyes and her body were insatiably curious.

"Yes, I found my way," Alison replied. "It really was no trouble at all."

Annette will bring us a cocktail presently. But I always go up to see Suzy first. Have you seen her?" Her vital face brightened when she spoke of Suzy.

"Miss Winstead brought her down. She's—she's adorable."

Teresa smiled, her features becoming soft and kind and maternal.

"She is a darling, isn't she? I'll be with you in a few minutes. I always stay with her while Winnie comes down for her supper—Suzy's supper."

Alison returned to the living room. Teresa was gone half an hour exactly. She came in as Annette brought in the tray.

TELLING YOU OF THIS is just an excuse, of course, for repeating an old joke with which I have been in love for years. It's the one about the smooth, suave guy who picks up a good-looking but cheaply-dressed girl in a bar.

"I'd like to take you places," he says loftily and critically, "but you need refurbishing. Why don't you go to Saks and buy a few dresses and charge them to me?"

"Then go to Antoine to have your hair done, charging it to me, of course. Get a winter coat at Bergdorf's and some new shoes at Bonwit's. Nothing too expensive, of course, but good, y'know? And then"—here he takes out a card with a number on it, and hands it to her—"call me here."

"Is that your office, or your home?" the dumb dame asks. "Oh, no," he says. "That's the candy store downstairs where I live. They'll call me to the phone."

Mr. Dunn, Morton Shulman and Buddy Marx, and they have developed something called the Metro-Fone Locator Directory, which, I am told, soon will be on the stands of hotel lobbies, drugstores, etc., along with the regular and classified phone books.

The deal is, that for one dollar, you can have your name, address and a phone number listed in the Metro-Fone directory—the phone being, perhaps, a public phone in your apartment house, a rooming-house phone down the hallway, a hotel number, a neighborhood store or the like.

Morton, Bill and Buddy have the cooperation of the phone company, and they went ahead with the idea after canvassing 5,000 New Yorkers first, the canvassed ones welcoming the plan with open arms.

Church Group Has October Meeting

Mrs. W. L. Sprouse entertained members of circle 3, Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church in her home on East Main street, for their October session. Mrs. Ora Pontius was assisting hostess. During the devotional period Mrs. H. C. Carley read selections from the Scriptures. The concert is the second in a series of musical events under the auspices of Business and Professional Women's Club and members of the Circleville high school band.

Piero Pierotic made his initial bow to New York audience in Carnegie Hall in 1940. When he was a marine officer in the Yugoslavian Navy a member of the Chicago opera "discovered" him and advised him to study in Vienna and Rome. He made his operatic debut in Czechoslovakia, and sang in concert and opera performances in European capitals.

Entire concert is carefully planned as to content and timing. There will be variety to please everyone. In Monday's concert the first group is devoted to strictly tuneful songs in English. His second group, finds him singing folk songs of his Dalmatian homeland.

Highlight of the program comes when Mr. Pierotic sings and acts a dramatic scene from the second act of the opera "Rigoletto" by Verdi in mask and costume.

Alfred Patten, pianist, accompanies all vocal numbers, and will present a few piano solos. Tickets may be purchased from members sponsoring the recital or at the door. The program begins promptly at 8 p.m.

Band Members and B And P Women's Club To Sponsor Concert

Piero Pierotic, Croatian baritone, has built a recital for Monday evening's presentation in the auditorium of Circleville high school which is an artistic masterpiece. The concert is the second in a series of musical events under the auspices of Business and Professional Women's Club and members of the Circleville high school band.

Piero Pierotic made his initial bow to New York audience in Carnegie Hall in 1940. When he was a marine officer in the Yugoslavian Navy a member of the Chicago opera "discovered" him and advised him to study in Vienna and Rome. He made his operatic debut in Czechoslovakia, and sang in concert and opera performances in European capitals.

Entire concert is carefully planned as to content and timing. There will be variety to please everyone. In Monday's concert the first group is devoted to strictly tuneful songs in English. His second group, finds him singing folk songs of his Dalmatian homeland.

Highlight of the program comes when Mr. Pierotic sings and acts a dramatic scene from the second act of the opera "Rigoletto" by Verdi in mask and costume.

Alfred Patten, pianist, accompanies all vocal numbers, and will present a few piano solos. Tickets may be purchased from members sponsoring the recital or at the door. The program begins promptly at 8 p. m.

Mrs. W. L. Sprouse entertained members of circle 3, Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church in her home on East Main street, for their October session. Mrs. Ora Pontious was assisting hostess. During the devotional period Mrs. H. C. Carley read selections from the Scriptures. Mrs. Charles Rader, chairman, conducted the routine business session, as the group made plans for future dinners to be held in the church.

Beverly Reid and Anna Mae Workman for their vocal duet sang, "Julia's Garden." Beverly Reid sang, "Wish" and "Altar of Prayer." Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh accompanied the vocal selections at the piano. Miss Letha Beavers gave an outstanding report of the conference of Ohio church women held recently in Columbus. The November meeting will be with Mrs. Russell Lane.

MINNESOTA AND ILLINOIS TOP BIG TEN CARD

Michigan Opens Against Purple—Wisconsin And Purdue In East

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—Destiny, the anti-social character with the convenient memory, will occupy a seat on the 50-yard line at Champaign, Ill., tomorrow when the undefeated football teams of Illinois and Minnesota collide in the day's national headliner.

The Illini-Gopher Donnybrook limelights the card of six games involving Western Conference teams.

Besides being unbeaten, both Illinois and Minnesota are tied for first place in the Big Nine standings, and within the space of two more weeks both will have played that other conference tyrant, Michigan.

The point-a-minute gents from Ann Arbor, Mich., will be busy tomorrow too. After three casual brothers against non-conference opposition, the Wolverines open their six-game conference march by playing Northwestern in Evanston, Ill.

There has been much pre-game discussion centered about the Michigan-Northwestern date. In some circles it is believed Michigan will score more than 60 points, while other persons hold firmly to the parlay-card belief that the ultimate won't be more than 26.

SPEAKING of betting, Illinois is held seven-point favorite over Minnesota. That doesn't mean much. Illinois was a touchdown favorite over Iowa and won 35-12; Illinois was a touchdown favorite over Army and wound up in a scoreless tie.

Concerning the day's other conference game, presenting those two disappointees, Iowa and Ohio State at Columbus, O., betting men have gone so far as to give Iowa a 12-point width in the wagering. This may not be so shrewd as it sounds, for Wes Fesler, the Ohio coach, has got to win some time—and his victim might as well be Iowa.

Two other Western conference clubs, both coming off losers to non-conference inquisitors last week, have traveled eastward to meet a pair of Atlantic seaboard toughies.

WISCONSIN, still wondering which way California went, must buck a hot Yale team at New Haven, Conn., while Purdue, which knew which way Notre Dame went, but couldn't do anything about it, invades Boston university.

Indiana should experience little or no discomfiture in wringing Pitt, which has played Illinois, Notre Dame and Michigan on successive punishing Saturdays to date.

TITLE RACE TO END SEASON AT BEULAH PARK

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17—The third running of the $5,000 Ohio championship tomorrow at Beulah Park will conclude the running race season in the Buckeye state for this year.

Twelve nominees, including both the 1945 and 1946 champions, are in the field. Only two of the horses are entries of out-of-state owners.

Al Smith's South Dakota won the mile and one-sixteenth race two years ago. Last year's winner was Thor, owned by Jack Brown of Cincinnati.

MICHIGAN AND IRISH GET BID TO CLEVELAND FACING SEVERE TEST IN FRIDAY GAME

By International News Service

Cleveland Cathedral Latin places the state's longest current undefeated streak on the block tonight when it meets Holy Name in a Cleveland Senate football game.

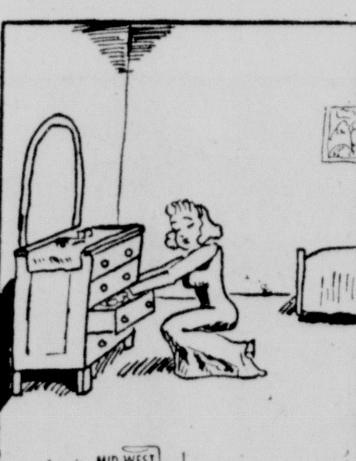

That's not particularly unusual; the Lions have been wearing the same chip on their shoulders for 38 contests. This time, however, Latin meets a foe that is undefeated in four starts and has as good a chance as anyone may have all season against the Lions.

Councilman Stephen Suhajcik, president of the committee, said that "although we have set Dec. 6 as the tentative date for the Great Lakes bowl game, we could change that date to suit Notre Dame and Michigan. We want to get at least one of them here if at all possible." He added:

"If either of the teams has an objection because of schedules or conference rules, we would like to talk with the college officials to see what can be done."

Charles Callahan, athletic publicity director at Notre Dame, said last night at South Bend, however, that Notre Dame's ban on post-season games was unchanged.

Hopes that Michigan could be brought to Cleveland for the game also received a damper from Kenneth "Tug" Wilson, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, who said in Chicago that "our rules are against any game of that type. In my judgment there is no chance whatever of this game being played."

"I'm looking for Jack's Frat Pin but I can't remember which one is his."

BIG QUESTION AT CAPITAL IS HEAT OF BUCKS

Hard Work And Criticism May Have State Ready For Iowa Game

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17—The burning question around Columbus today was whether or not Wes Fesler has his Ohio State Bucks fired up for tomorrow's Western Conference grid tussle with Iowa.

The Bucks, whose native ability is somewhat open to question, were a sluggish ball club against Purdue and a listless one last week against Southern California. The Bucks lost both games.

Fesler used two weapons to bring the Bucks back this week. One was a little item dubbed "hard work;" The other was a collection of uncomplimentary press clippings. Fesler didn't have to look far for the latter; he posted a few choice passages on the team bulletin board and awaits results tomorrow.

Iowa will be a favorite tomorrow, largely because last week's brilliant victory over Indiana seemed to indicate the Hawkeyes had put internal troubles behind them. Eddie Anderson has eight of last year's eleven "iron men" back, plus Al Demarco, little forward passing wizard who played wartime ball at Bowling Green.

Despite the Bucks' miserable showing in the 32-to-0 rout by USC last week, Ohio fans are coming back for more. Late reports from the OSU ticket office indicated another crowd in excess of 75,000.

The Bucks planned to retire to Magnetic Springs after a very brief workout this afternoon. Anderson's Hawkeyes arrived by train this morning, hiked to a downtown hotel and also planned to drill briefly this afternoon.

YONAKER BEING GROOMED FOR LAVELLI'S SPOT

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17—A former Notre Dame gridder, John Yonakor, was being groomed today to fill the Cleveland Browns offensive right end spot, left vacant by the injured Dante Lavelli.

Yonakor, who has been used primarily on defense with the Browns, was at the receiving end of the passes of Angelo Bellotti and Johnny Lujack during his collegiate days. He won all-American recognition with the 1943 Irish eleven.

The rugged 220-pounder was delegated to defensive duties with the Browns because of his ability to pile up interference on end sweeps and to rush prospective passers.

The Browns will clash with the Chicago Rockets Sunday at the Cleveland stadium before tackling the dangerous San Francisco

NEW YORK MAY RECEIVE NOD FOR CONVENTION

Lackadaisical Bidding To Democrats Will Be Decided Oct. 29

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—New York City is being considered in Democratic circles today as a new possible choice for the 1948 Democratic national convention.

One Democratic party official close to the difficult problem of selecting next year's nominating site said he "wouldn't be surprised" to see New York win out over Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

The Democratic national committee meets in Washington Oct. 29 to make a final decision. Consideration of New York in what has been a lackadaisical bidding contest considerably broadened the committee's field of action.

THE LAST political convention of either party held in New York City was in 1924, when the Democrats nominated John W. Davis for his unsuccessful race against Calvin Coolidge.

While few political leaders adhere to the popular belief that the location of a nominating convention affects elections, Democrats can point to the fact that they carried New York state in 1944 when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was the GOP nominee. Dewey lost his home state to the late President Roosevelt by 316,591 popular votes.

NEW YORK MAY RECEIVE NOD FOR CONVENTION

Lackadaisical Bidding To Democrats Will Be Decided Oct. 29

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—New York City is being considered in Democratic circles today as a new possible choice for the 1948 Democratic national convention.

One Democratic party official close to the difficult problem of selecting next year's nominating site said he "wouldn't be surprised" to see New York win out over Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

The Democratic national committee meets in Washington Oct. 29 to make a final decision. Consideration of New York in what has been a lackadaisical bidding contest considerably broadened the committee's field of action.

THE LAST political convention of either party held in New York city was in 1924, when the Democrats nominated John W. Davis for his unsuccessful race against Calvin Coolidge.

While few political leaders adhere to the popular belief that the location of a nominating convention affects elections, Democrats can point to the fact that they carried New York state in 1944 when Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was the GOP nominee. Dewey lost his home state to the late President Roosevelt by 316,591 popular votes.

To date, Philadelphia has headed the prospective list of cities with an "on the line" offer of $200,000, plus $50,000 for entertainment expenses, free use of auditorium facilities and adequate hotel accommodations. It already has the Republican convention on the same offer.

Robert E. Hannegan, the retiring Democratic chairman, and Gael Sullivan, his executive director, are on the West coast now. It is understood they are making an effort to have San Francisco match the City of Brotherly Love's fat financial bid.

Chicago, where President Truman won his 1944 vice-presidential nomination, has displayed little interest in the '48 convention. At best, its offer would be $100,000. Democratic lieutenants say, with a big question mark on the important matter of hotel space for delegates, press and radio correspondents and visitors.

Friends of the president say he would like to go back to Chicago next year, but there has been nothing to indicate he would oppose New York as the convention site.
